INDIANAPOLIS, July 3.—The funeral of the late Bishop M. de St. Palis took place at Vincennes to-day. The great bell of the cathedral began tolling at six o'clock in the morning, and continued its solemn notes until half-past nine, when the funeral cortege, composed of near three hundred priests and religious recluses, proceeded by a plumed hearse drawn by six black homes heavily housed with cloths of black, and followed by carnages containing the following eminent prelates: Most Rev. Archbishop Purcell, of Cincinnati; Right Rev. Bishop Balles, of Alton, Illinois; Right Rev. Bishop Devenger, of Fort Wayne; Right Rev. Eishop Devenger Rev. Archbishop Rev. St. Louis, July 3.—Two brothers, named Lige and Barney Dye, rough characters, went into the town of Tamara, Illinois, yesterday, and created a distorbance. Barney was arrested by Town-Marshal Corgan and fined. This incensed him greatly, and when released he purchased a revolver and swore he would not be arrested again. Subsequently Marshal Corgan, aided by Constable James Taylor, attempted his arrest, when he resisted and was assisted by his brothers-inlaw, Henry and Charles Winthrop, who declared he should not be arrested. A melecensued, in which knives and pistols were freely used. Charles Winthrop was killed, having received one shot in the bowels and another in the mouth. Henry Winthrop received a shot in the abdomen and a stab in the back, from which he cannot recover. BRITISH WHEATTRADE.

The Weekly Review of the British Wheat Crop is, Generally Speaklug, Favorable.

London, July 3.—The Mark Lane Express weekly review of the British corn trade says Reports of the growing wheat plant are, generally speaking, favorable, but no early barvest seems improbable, in spite of the prevenient which has taken place in the weather, having regard to the fact that the plant has come to ear some days better than he average time. Reports from northern and midland counties are to the effect that. although the sunshine has done much to p mote the developments of cereal crops, then are still some districts where the bad effect of a severe spring are plainly to be seen in the thinness and spiry character of the when clant. Advices as to the appearances of pring corn are somewhat contradictory, bu spring corn are somewhat contradutory, but, on the whole, there is a prospect of a satisfactory yield. The prospect of a satisfactory yield of barley and oats is somewhat dubious, the former plant having, in certain localities, been much thinned by worms. Hay-making has been interrupted by rains, but in these districts, where cutting had not commenced, farmers will reap an advantage in heavier mans. Taking into consideration the uncer-crops. Taking into consideration the uncertainty of the weather, it appears probable that the harvest of 1877 will not prove so disappointing as that of 1876, as far as yield is concerned, but it is very doubtful whether it will be equally satisfactory in point of quality; ne article was, last year, very fine. The cuantity of English wheat remaining in farmers' hands is very trifling, and the firmer tone which has characterized trade, both at Mark Lane and in country markets, have further strengthened holders. Imports into ondon continue liberal, owing chiefly to the extensive importation of wheat which habeen going on from northern Russia, arrival to be Friday amounting to nearly hity-three housand quarters. In the face of these facts, a brisk demand has been experienced at an mprovement of one shilling per quarter on he week, and the steadiness with which the dvance has been maintained seems to indicate that the turning-point has been reached, and prices may be expected to improve, as Russian supplies diminish. This is more likely, as the very limited stocks of English in farmers' hands will necessitate an increased ecline upon foreign supplies for the next two or three months; and with the visible supply in American less than half what it was a in American less than half what it was at this time last year, there appears to be little probability of any important outward move-ment from that country. At the present rate of importation, our wants are being supplied, and, for the moment, the weather remains the most important factor in trade."
